

One day a boy and his dad were playing outside and saw in a newspaper that they could win $100,00 if they won a demo derby. So they went to a used car dealer and found a junky car. The next morning they entered the derby. At the derby they thought they were ready but they weren't. The first round they won. They were unstoppable for a while but when the last round came the engine fell out of the car. They were very mad when they lost. They say they will enter next year and win but I don't believe that.

The End

by Fred Sisco