

My Friend that made a Dare

Once my friend dared me to jump off of a cliff. For about a minute I questioned being his friend. He was laughing at me for falling for his dare. I wondered why he was laughing, then he told me it wasn't real and I went home crying.

The next day at recess he said sorry for making such a bad joke, but he kept laughing and cleared his throat, and pretended like he was not making fun of me. I said he was mean but agreed to be his friend.

By: Lauren Christoff