

Caroline

THE little flower

One day there was a flower it was different from all the other flowers. So one day the other flowers made fun of it. The little flower was sad. So one day a fairy Godflower told her that it did not matter if she was different. So the next day the little flower told them what had happened so they believed her and did not make fun of her any more.

By Caroline
Sayer